

PANEL OF NEURODIVERSE YOUNG ADULTS

February 3rd, 7:00 - 8:30 PM
Via Zoom

This free virtual panel is an excellent opportunity for parents, providers, and youth to learn from neurodiverse young adults. The panelists have a myriad of experiences to share, from advice about navigating high school to employment and self-advocacy.

The panelists will offer their perspectives on how parents can best communicate with neurodiverse youth and will share their experiences utilizing educational and vocational supports. These young adults have important tips and ideas on how to prepare for and navigate life after high school. They have important perspectives that will provide important insights for parents, providers, and neurodiverse middle school and high school students. We hope you can join us.

Panelists:

Kenassa Sarka, Shorewood High School graduate, college student, and MC (master of ceremonies)

Trenton Scott, Ballard High School graduate, social event organizer, employee at Metropolitan Market

PJ Au, Aviation High School graduate, nanny/educator, entertainer/activist

Jay Pierce, Roosevelt High School/Bellevue College Running Start, public speaker

RSVP here: <http://bit.ly/35Y4INc>

3 Clock hours are available to Washington State educators, through our friends at The Polytech. Please indicate if you would like to receive clock hours when you are completing the RSVP form.

